4.1 Export Customs Declaration: Party B is responsible for providing the materials required for export customs declaration (including but not limited to packing list, invoice, contract, product manual, etc.)

4 2 Import Customs Clearance: Party A is responsible for import customs clearance matters in Australia/New Zealand, including paying taxes and submitting documents. Party A shall provide Party B with the list of documents required for customs clearance in Australia/New Zealand as soon as possible before taking delivery, but no later than 10 days before the goods arrive at the designated port.

Article 5 Delivery, acceptance, certification and warranty

5 1 Delivery Time Party B shall complete the manufacturing drawings and material list of the house (including the list of spare parts for warranty purposes) within 15 working days upon receiving the down payment. After Party A signs to confirm, Party B shall complete the preparation of the goods within 60 working days and notify Party A to conduct factory acceptance.

5.2 Factory Acceptance Criteria: Factory acceptance shall be carried out by Party B. Party B shall inspect the quantity and appearance of the goods listed in the shipping list and send the inspection process along with the packing and boxing video to Party A for confirmation. If there are obvious defects (structural damage, missing quantities, etc.), Party A must submit a written notice within 24 hours of receiving the video; if no notice is submitted within the time limit, the factory acceptance shall be deemed qualified.

5.3 Certification. The certification expenses shall be borne by Party A. Should Party A be unable to promptly manage the certification qualifications and necessitate Party B's intervention, Party A shall be responsible for covering the resulting costs. In the event that Party A delays the pickup of goods at the port after arrival due to certification issues, Party A shall assume the costs incurred from port detention and initiate the final payment settlement process.

5.4 Installation Technical Support: Party B shall provide guidance to Party A via video on the disassembly and unpacking of the goods to ensure that the goods are intact and the quantities are correct. If any obvious defects are found, personnel from both parties shall immediately compare with the factory acceptance video confirmed by Party A to determine responsibility. If the responsibility lies with Party B, Party B shall resend the defective parts and bear the related costs. If the obvious defects are caused by transportation, in accordance with Article 3, Clause 3.2 of this contract, Party B shall negotiate compensation directly with its designated logistics carrier or insurance company, and Party A shall provide necessary cooperation, including resending defective parts (costs to be borne by Party B).

After receiving the goods, Party A shall be guided by Party B via video for installation. 5.5 Risk Transfer: The risk of loss or damage to the goods shall pass to Party A from the time Party A takes delivery of the goods.

5.6 Warranty: Party B shall provide spare parts and components equivalent to no less than 10% of the total quantity of interior and exterior decoration materials supplied under this contract, for after-sales maintenance and repair. Such spare parts and components shall be delivered together with the main goods, with specific types and quantities listed in the material inventory.

Article 6 Liability for Breach of Contract

6.1 If Party A fails to pay the purchase price on time, Party A shall pay Party B a penalty of 0.1% of the unpaid amount for each day of delay. If payment is still not made after a delay of 30 days, Party B may consider that Party A has waived the execution of this contract. If it is confirmed that Party A has waived the execution of the contract, in addition to paying the penalty, Party A shall also pay Party B additional compensation equal to 30% of the payable purchase price to cover the necessary expenses incurred by Party B in the performance of this contract.

6.2 If Party B fails to deliver the goods as agreed, it shall pay a penalty equivalent to 0.1% of the total contract price for each day of delay, and this penalty will be deducted from the contract amount. If the goods are still not delivered as agreed after a 15-day delay, Party A has the right to request the termination of the contract and require Party B to refund the payment made within 10 days after the termination of the contract. If Party A fails to pick up the goods on time after receiving the bill of lading, all expenses arising from the goods remaining at the port shall be borne by Party A.

6.3 The above breach of contract shall be excluded if it is caused by force majeure or the other party.

Article 7 Force Majeure

If the contract cannot be performed due to force majeure such as war, strikes, natural disasters, etc., the two parties may negotiate to postpone the performance or terminate the contract, and neither party shall bear any liability for breach of contract.

Article 8 Dispute Resolution

8.1 This contract and any disputes arising therefrom shall be subject to the laws of the People's Republic of China.

8.2 The product quality, delivery date, price, etc. stipulated in this contract are based on the current international situation and price standards. If force majeure causes a huge change in the above scope and makes it impossible for both parties to perform this contract, the two parties shall negotiate to resolve the dispute.

8.3 Any dispute between Party A and Party B arising from this contract shall be resolved through friendly negotiation. If the negotiation fails, either party may apply for arbitration to the China International Economic and Trade Arbitration Commission (CIETAC) in accordance with the arbitration rules in force at that time. The arbitration is final and legally binding on both parties.

Article 9 Other Terms

This contract is made in two copies, one for each party, and shall take effect from the date of signing and stamping.
